CHARACTER BIO: Erica Vera, Human Rogue, aged 18

Selaine Lamon is a name feared across The City of Nevvaa, her magic known to capture those and turn them inside out in seconds. Her authority and intelligence are unquestioned by her followers and those who fear her. However, little is said about but her adopted daughter: Erica Vera.

Erica is a killer, trained from a young age to hunt or collect whatever her mother deems. If you ever met Erica Vera, you would see little of her face -, skimming the floor as she floated through the space around her and slipped between rays of light, or any of her for that matter. Her cloak is more known than her appearance allowing her to reside in the shadows.

Yet, you would most certainly hear her confident voice taunting you... and how could she not? This is what she is. This is everything she is made to be. She knows if she fights anyone she will win - or maybe she doesn't care if she didn't.

Whilst her appearance is seen as a mystery, the love Erica has for her mother is not. She is the first to come to her defence, the first to fight and usually the one to win. Whilst equally being the first she could need from Selaine. However, no one knows who Erica was before The City of Nevvaa's kingdom fell, least of all Erica. She cannot help but hope to find out.

Now, Erica is to complete her mother's newest task along the outskirts of the city, and whilst tracking and killing is her expertise, saving a live prisoner of war is not.
